Although the top spot is no longer in issue, this week finds at least four teams in the war to end all wars; for money, love and honor; but most of all, for that coveted two-hole draft spot.

That's right, Rube, I said that there are four teams in contention for second place. If you will merely flip to the other side, you will understand why your team has been ruled out of contention by this newsletter and your colleagues.

Next week: The Wrap-up.
